Key Literary Works

- Stoker, Bram. Dracula (1966) I&R – 823/STO
Gothic horror novel by Irish author Bram Stoker is famous for introducing the character of the vampire Count Dracula. (1897)
- Shelley, Mary Wollstonecraft. Frankenstein: or, The modern Prometheus (1969) I&R – 823/SHE
Victor Frankenstein spends months creating a creature out of old body parts. One climactic night, he brings his creation to life. Mary Shelley's 'Frankenstein' gave a scientific form to the supernatural formula of the Gothic novel. (1818)
- Maturin, Charles Robert. Melmoth the Wanderer (1968) I&R – 823/MEL
This classic Gothic novel is a sprawling epic about a man who sells his soul to the Devil, wandering the earth in search of another soul to take on his burden. (1820)
- Lewis, Matthew. The Monk: A Romance (1973) I&R – 823/LEW
With its emphasis firmly on the horrific and the shocking, 'The Monk' moved Gothic away from the gentle terrors of earlier authors and confronted readers with an onslaught of horror. (1796)
- * Anonymous. Tales of Terror (1801) I&R – SR 821/TAL
This collection of horror ballads includes original and traditional works, translations and adaptations, and even burlesques of the Gothic. It was written by anonymous authors, but is often attributed to Matthew 'The Monk' Lewis, and is believed to be more of a tribute to him. (1801)
- Parsons, Eliza. Castle of Wolfenbach (1968) I&R – 823/PAR
Matilda flees her lecherous and incestuous uncle and seeks refuge in the ancient Castle of Wolfenbach. Among the castle's abandoned chambers, Matilda will discover the horrifying mystery of the missing Countess of Wolfenbach. (1793)
- Du Maurier, George. Trilby (1956) I&R – 823/DUM
'Trilby' is set in the 1850s in an idyllic bohemian Paris. Though it features the hijinks of three lovable English artists, its most memorable character is Svengali, a Jewish rogue, a masterful musician, and an irresistible hypnotist. (1894)

- Peake, Mervyn. Gormenghast (1970) I&R – 823/PEA
Mervyn Peake's 'Gormenghast' trilogy has grown out of its reputation as a cult classic, as a book no reader interested in Gothic dare to miss. (1950)
- Brontë, Emily. Wuthering Heights (1964) I&R – 823/BRO
Realism and gothic symbolism combine to form a romance novel that's full of social relevance. Follow the self-destructive journey of Heathcliff as he seeks revenge for losing his soul mate, Catherine, to Edgar Linton.(1847)
- Austen, Jane. Northanger Abbey (1976) I&R – 823/AUS
Most literary critics refer to Northanger Abbey as Jane Austen's 'Gothic parody' because it satirizes the form and conventions of the Gothic novels. In particular, Austen is said to have mimicked Ann Radcliffe. (1817)
- Radcliffe, Ann. The Italian (1971) I&R – 823/RAD
'The Italian' is one of the finest examples of Gothic romance. The speedy narrative centres on Ann Radcliffe's most brilliant creation, the sinister monk, Schedoni. (1797)
- De Sade, Marquis. The Gothic Tales (1990) I&R – 943/SAD
Amongst the most accessible of Sade's fiction, the stories in this collection range from the dramatic novella 'Eugenie de Franval' to comic tales such as 'The Husband Who Played Priest'.

Analyses of Gothic Literature and Film

- * Hennessy, Brendan. The Gothic Novel (1978) I&R – QP 823/HEN
In this brief chronological guide to Gothic literature, Hennessey claims that the desire be terrified is as much a part of human nature as it is to laugh.
- Small, Christopher. Ariel Like a Harpy: Shelley, Mary and Frankenstein (1972) I&R – 823/SHE
An exploration of Shelley's biographical background and relationships with her father, William Godwin, and husband, Percy Shelley, and the curious parallels with incidents in her own life and the story of 'Frankenstein'.
- Rudkin, David. Vampyr (2005) I&R – 791.43/DRE
'Vampyr' (1932) is one of the founding works of psychological horror cinema, adapted from the gothic stories by Sheridan Le Fanu. David Rudkin reveals how this film binds the spectator into its mysterious world of the undead.
