'LAD, THA'S ON A MISSION': THE CULTURAL LEGACY OF THE YORKSHIRE RIPPER MURDERS

Wednesday 17 July, 6-7pm
Sanderson Room, 3rd Floor

Between 1975 and 1980 Peter Sutcliffe murdered thirteen women and attacked several more. Inquiries into the investigation by West Yorkshire Police exposed serious flaws which resulted in significant changes to police tactics - changes that are still felt today. Women's anger at the murders drove feminist protests, and northern artists have returned to the murders to examine the society in which Sutcliffe operated. In this talk, Francesca Roe explores the legacy of the murders in the present – from police procedures to public attitudes, poetry to politics.
